Rev. Fr. Patrick Kelly Observes Silver Jubilee Sunday

St. Catherine's pastor will celebrate solemn High Mass at 11 o'clock in honor of occasion—Corning and Buffalo pastors to assist—Dinner and tea at parish house will complete observance.

Twenty-five years in the Catholic priesthood will be observed by the Rev. Patrick A. Kelly of St. Catherine's Church Sunday. Father Kelly came to Addison in July, 1937 to take over St. Catherine's Church which was being administered by the Rev. J. Edward McKay, who in turn was serving for the late Father Francis Moffett. Since coming here many innovations have been instituted in the church and parish house and many improvements have been made.

Father Kelly came to Addison from St. Gabriel's Church in Hammondsport. Prior to that he had served charges in Mt. Carmel Church, Rochester, Penn Yan, Owego and Bradford.

He was ordained to the Catholic priesthood by the late Thomas F. Hickey, Bishop of Rochester, after he was graduated from St. Bernard's Seminary and St. Andrew's Seminary. Father Kelly was born in Medina but spent his youth in Rochester where he attended St. Mary's School.

A solemn high mass will be said for the jubilee at 11 o'clock Sunday in St. Catherine's Church. This will be followed by a dinner in the Eagle Hotel and a silver tea in the parish house throughout the afternoon in charge of the ladies of St. Catherine's Court, Catholic Daughters of America.

Those who will assist at the solemn high mass are: Deacon the Rev. Joseph A. Kennedy, a nephew of St. Nicholas Church, Buffalo; sub-deacon, the Rev. Joseph Smith, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Corning, master - of - ceremonies, John Coleman. The Rev. Father Joseph G. Guilford, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, Corning, will preach the sermon on "The Priesthood".

The people of Addison are extended a cordial invitation to the Mass and tea.

Flag Day June 14th

Friday is Flag Day!

It was June 14, 1777 when Congress created a flag which was to become a symbol of world power and in that year the Flag of the United States of America first flew in battle over Fort Stanwix in Rome.

Friday, that flag, one of the oldest of the world's flags in spite of the youthful country it represents, should fly from every building in the United States and its possessions.

Flag Day this year should have a symbolism never before felt in American history. It truly means liberty, the pursuit of happiness, freedom of the press, freedom of worship and freedom of speech.

Fly the flag Flag Day and proclaim Americanism.

Relief. This community contributed $305 for Red Cross European relief.

Cloudburst On Addison Hill Deluges Canisteo Valley

Addison center of heavy downpour — Over inch of water fell in hour—Roads blocked—Sewers plugged—Cellars flooded and gardens destroyed—County and state highway employes spend active night—Unestimated damage.

Torrential rains descended upon Addison at a late hour Tuesday night and left in their wake inundated roads, flooded fields and crops washed out and plants destroyed in addition to flooded cellars and buildings.

Owing to previous rains the grounds here were soaked and hence could not absorb the rains which came at 7:30 Tuesday night and continued with driving force for one hour. At the conclusion of the storm all roads except those from the south were blocked. East of Addison Little Niagara left its course, cascaded down across fields and inundated Route 17 for a distance of about 200 yards. One motorist became stalled with seven inches of water on the floor of his car. Carleton Ford rescued the children in the car. State police and highway workers worked at the scene until 2:30 Wednesday morning before traffic was permitted to go through.

Railroad schedules were disrupted for four hours. The roadbed was washed out under the railroad in the vicinity of Catherine Creek and trains ran on caution signal there and then when they got to Addison were held up here until after 1 a. m. Wednesday by washouts at Little Niagara. Wrecking crews worked throughout the night and all day Wednesday to make the roadbed safe.

Goodhue Hill suffered the greatest damage for the shoulders were washed out in many places leaving embankments six and more feet deep on both sides of the road. Fields were covered with stones brought down from the hills, many of which were deposited along Front, Maple and nearby streets. Back yards from Darrins to Weatherby's were under all night and throughout Wednesday with rocks and water, which continued to run long after the storm had abated.

The greatest individual damage in this immediate vicinity was in the vicinity of the Emerson home, next to the old sanitorium on Goodhue Hill. The yard, which had been planted, was completely washed out and a hen house was moved several feet and dumped into a gully by the force of the water. Residents of the vicinity worked late into the night trying to keep muddy waters from damaging their homes. Some cellars were flooded and oil burners in the Darrin and E. C. Smith homes were moved before being damaged.

No traffic was permitted over Goodhue Hill from 9 o'clock until early in the morning Wednesday and waters loaded with stones, sticks and other debris continued to pour down the hill.

West of the village in the vicinity of the Lewis Hill barn and Claude Martin homes stones wrecked gardens, tore out parts of cellar walls and deposited two feet of stones on the highway and in the yards. In addition a pool of water formed at the low spot between the Addison Mills and the Erie Station and three feet of water on the highway prevented any traffic until noon Wednesday when the water lowered to 14 inches and remained throughout the day Wednesday.

The Catherine Creek rampage started at the Tom Griffin place and damaged everything to the Charles Stewart place. The Sheldon Stewart gardens and crops were completely washed out and the yard filled with rocks. At the Earl Mattison farm the barn was flooded and two cans of milk for the dairy were lost. Fences were torn out, bridges leading to homes were destroyed and trees laid low. The Mattison driveway was destroyed with 13 acres of oats and Stewarts lost seven acres of corn. Other farmers reported losses from the floods in their garden and supply crops. Places within five miles of Addison reported little rain.

The Reuben Brown lawn was covered withrocks from the Orr Hill

AHS Alumni To Hold 65th Anniversary

The graduating class of 1940 of Addison High School will mark the 65th class to become members of the Alumni of that school.

The Alumni Association will pay tribute to the members of the Class of '40 and to all the classes that have gone before at the annual Alumni Banquet and Ball to be held Wednesday night, June 26 in the high school auditorium.

During the 65 years since the first class was given diplomas, hundreds of students have gone from the vicinity to make their homes in other communities. Some have sought higher education and became famous in various lines of industry, commerce and art. Many have received employment in distant parts of the continent, while some have remained in and about Addison to work and make homes here.

Regardless of their occupation, profession or work they are still Alumni of Addison High School and as such are invited and urged to return to renew friendships at the 65th commencement reunion. This is the only occasion throughout the year when many of the old graduates return to Addison to renew their friendships and seek to renew that youth which they feel they have left behind.

The new building, the younger generation, the change in teaching personnel and changes in the community itself may cause some to hesitate about coming back to the reunion, but members of the committees in charge assure all the older graduates they will be welcome and a time and place will be set aside for them in the library the night of the banquet, where they can meet old friends, talk over old times and make new friends with a common bond of interest, being a graduate of Addison High School.

As in past years there will be a banquet in the school building early in the evening. A reception committee will be appointed, composed of older and younger graduates so that all coming, whether alone or with a group, will be cordially received and made to feel they are part of the program and reunion ceremonies.

Music for dancing will be provided by a well known orchestra, later in the evening. Dress will be informal for both the banquet and the dance.

ANNUAL BASKET MEETING HELD IN CORNING

Scouts Report On Camporee

Troop 27, under our new Scoutmaster, the Rev. M. C. Johns, tried out a new system of taking care of the work that always goes with a Camporee. Instead of the old-fashioned K. P. system, we tried out what might be called a patrol system. We have in our troop four patrols, and at Camporee we went by numbers. For every meal each patrol had a specific duty such as preparing the meal, washing the dishes or cleaning camp. We all believe it worked out very nicely.

All in all we think the Camporee was run off very smoothly except for one thing. The management always furnishes us with some way to keep our meat and butter cool, but this time it wasn't very good. Our boys can testify to that because none of them had any of the meat that was on the menu for Sunday noon. Some troop had accidentally got the wrong meat.

We all think, though despite the usual mishaps, that it was a fine camporee. We would all like to thank the Rev. Johns and his swell staff of assistants, and Homer Reynolds, whose truck transported our tent and belongings both ways.

They have secured Reuben Oldfield, Jr., son of County Clerk Reuben Oldfield, and a florist of Bath as the principal speaker. An open forum on gardens will be held after the speaking.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the World's News

[illegible]ntry of Italy into the fast [illegible]preading war was hailed with boasts by the Nazis, with great bitterness by the Allies and with little restraint by the United States. There were greater demonstrations against Italian shops in London than there had been at any time against similar German establishments since the war began. The British [illegible] occupied with their desperate situation to send out news regarding the public attitude aside from an impassioned address by Premier Renaud exhorting his people to super-human effort.

* * *

At the end of the first day of active participation of Italy the British Admiralty announced 27 Italian ships had been captured or scuttled. Italians reported bombing the British naval base at Malta while the R. A. F. carried the war to Italian military points. The British stated Tuesday they had mined waters around the Italian "Boot" as well as other sea areas vital to operations of the Italian fleet.

* * *

Turkey expressed sympathy with the Allies as soon as Mussolini made his war declaration, the official comment of Turkey being the Duce had "backed the wrong horse". Wednesday Turkey broke off diplomatic relations with Italy. It is expected the Turks will enter the conflict at the first hint of aggression made by Italy in the Balkans.

* * *

The situation of the beautiful city of Paris is more desperate than when the armies of the Kaiser pressed close to its environs in 1914. The French government has been moved to Tours and the three million inhabitants are evacuating the city which has been ablaze in many places this week. An acrid, smoky haze hangs over Paris from the fires in the city and burning towns near by which have been fired by waves of Nazi bombers dropping incendiary bombs. The French army is making a desperate, impossible stand to hold the beloved capital city. At the end of the Flanders battle General Weygand had formed a flexible line east and west across France approximately 55 miles north of Paris. This was a line of depth designed to combat the mechanized drive. The French have succeeded in wiping out hundreds of tanks with their 75's as the motored fortresses break through front lines to where the famous guns are concealed. Yet the Germans keep coming regardless of terrific losses in men and materials.

* * *

Some British troops have been landed in France to help bolster the battle lines but principal support of the British has been given by R. A. F. planes which have harassed Nazi communication lines from English bases. British warships along the coast of France have bombarded German troops cutting that way to try to encircle Paris from the west and south.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

The Rev. J. V. Axtell attended a Planning Conference of Presbyterian ministers Tuesday. The conference and picnic were held at Sullivan M[illegible]ent Park near Lowpoint.

CONDITION IMPROVED

The condition of Samuel M. LaGrange, who has been seriously ill of pneumonia at his home on Maple street is reported somewhat improved.

PICNIC POSTPONED

The picnic luncheon meeting of the Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church has been postponed indefinitely owing to the death of Miss Fannie Curtis, long an active member of that group. The picnic was to have been held today, Thursday, at the home of Mrs. Charles Crane, Steuben street.

Speaking before a college graduating class Monday night President Roosevelt bitterly denounced the Italian war move describing it as a "stab in the back of France." He promised every material resource of this country would be available to the Allies. This speech of the President has been criticised by Republicans as to inflammatory an utterance.

* * *

Most Americans desire to extend material aid to the Allies, but they do not want the country stirred by war hysteria to the point of sending troops across the Atlantic a second time. There is national unity on the subject of arming this country for defense, yet sober heads say it is folly to rush America into the war when the Allies could best be helped to withstand attack by totalitarian powers with planes, tanks and guns.

* * *

With military commentators agreed only a miracle can save Paris from the Nazis, speculation is rife whether General Weygand can reform his troops in a line south of the capital and continue to offer stiff resistance to the Germans. Hitler is believed to be putting all his chance of victory in this supreme drive. If the French can hold him until September they are confident of winning for American planes and tanks will be arriving then in quantity.

* * *

American army planes "traded" back to the manufacturers are already being forwarded to the war zone. Henry Ford after examining a fast army plane has reiterated he can easily turn out 1,000 a day "for defense purposes". The Baldwin Locomotive Works are being geared for production of army tanks and shells. Other great American plants are being readied to produce war materials which should soon bolster French armies, if these armies can hold until the materials arrive.

Miss Fannie E. Curtis Civic Leader here, Dies Wednesday

Retired teacher was descended from one of oldest families of village—Was member of Board of Education and active in community affairs.

This community is deeply saddened by the death of Miss Fannie E. Curtis who departed this life at 2:30 A. M. Wednesday, June 12, 1940 at her home on Steuben street. Her passing brings to a close the well-rounded, useful life of a woman descended from one of Addison's oldest families who truly lived up to the traditions of her birth, education and opportunities.

Miss Curtis was born on Curtis Square in Addison February 19, 1866 the daughter of Alonzo and Elvira Blanchard Curtis. Her grandfather, Solomen Curtis, was one of the early Addison pioneers who came here in 1821 and purchased a tract of 600 acres of land extending from the Canisteo River to the top of Goodhue Hill. Solomon Curtis showed his civic interest in the future of the village by giving from his acres the land which now constitutes Curtis Square for a village playground.

Miss Curtis graduated from Addison High School in 1886. She took a special three-year course in training for the profession of teaching under a school principal at Hancock, N. Y. where her first teaching was done. From that school she went to the Clayville school and then to teach in Sidney. Her father then encouraged her to take a short rest but the urge was strong to continue the calling she loved and shortly after leaving Sidney Miss Curtis applied for a position in the East Orange, N. J., school system. She was accepted as a substitute teacher but quickly won a permanent position and stayed in the school for 32 years. She retired from active teaching in 1927, but has at times been urged to do substitute teaching for short periods.

On retiri[illegible]urtis returned to Addison[illegible] home with her siste[illegible] Gibson and Miss Deli Curtis who died a short time ago. This period of her life offered her an opportunity to devote a large amount of time to civic undertakings, which she accepted to the great benefit of this community. Generous with her time and talents she became one of the most useful citizens of Addison and for several years nearly every undertaking of community betterment launced in the village drafted her for some kind of work.

She served for a time as chairman of the local Red Cross committee, was assistant librarian, and served on a multitude of committees. At the time of her death Miss Curtis was finishing the third year of a term as trustee of Addison School District No. 1 being chairman of the important teachers' committee. She was a member of Addison Presbyterian Church, vice president of the Missionary Society of that church and treasurer of the Addison Civic Society. She was also a member of the W. C. T. U.

Miss Curtis was a fine, Christian, noblewoman whose life was one long chapter of efficient action and service given to those around her. She counted as the greatest achievements of her life the opportunities she had had to work with boys and girls who needed setting back on the right path to make them better citizens. Her influence on the hundreds of lives she touched will go on for years.

Miss Curtis leaves two sisters: Mrs. Gibson of Addison and Mrs. Nettie Bargar of Springville, N. Y.; a nephew, Harry Gibson of Syracuse and a niece, Mrs. Marian Van Valkena of Bryan, Texas.

Funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow (Friday) at two-thirty. The Rev. J. V. Axtell, pastor of the Presbyterian Church will officiate. Burial will be in the Curtis lot in Addison Maple Cemetery.

STEERING CLEAR

A reader of these columns writes a moving appeal for editorial support to the cause of keeping America out of the war. The writer is among the thousands—probably millions of folks who believe it is not the mission of our country to mix again into European quarrels.

This paper has asserted time and again that we should not allow our sympathies with an apparently just cause draw us into another excursion across the Atlantic. Just twenty-three years ago we did plunge into such a venture, declaring war on a foreign power which had not invaded our country or violated our Monroe Doctrine. It was a new experience for us to send soldiers over seas and we became so enthusiastic in our prosecution of that war the whole of our great national resources were thrown into the struggle. We believed the tale that the war we were fighting was one which would end war and we were willing to make great sacrifices that this should come to pass.

We were fooled. Two years after the Armistice the war party in Germany was starting to rebuild the army nominally disbanded by the treaty of Versailles. The military party had no thought of peace—to them the Armistice was merely a breathing spell which would give them the time to organize a force more invincible than the armies the Kaiser had sent into France. France, too, was getting ready for another war, training soldiers, making guns but mostly she was spending millions building the Maginot Line to prevent another German invasion.

For twenty years Germany has been training her youth for mechanized warfare. Long before Hitler came to power German war leaders were surreptitiously dealing with the Reds, experimenting with planes on Russian soil—graduating ready for the day when production of the big war machine would go into high gear. [illegible] in Germany knew nothing of the [illegible]s. We on this side were completely [illegible] crusade of Hitler after [illegible] country [illegible] fooled by a shell game man at the county fair than we were by the camouflage which surrounded German and Russian cooperation in developing the air force which now has France and Britain in critical danger.

Now today, there are Americans who say that we must enter this war to save the democracies. Have they forgotten the slogan we shouted in 1917, "We'll make the world safe for democracy"?

American sympathy is solidly against the totalitarian countries, just as our sympathies have been aligned with Ethiopia, China, Czechoslovakia and Poland. We detest national ambitions which are built on the policy of strong nations taking territory from the weak. But Americans who advocate we throw ourselves once more into a European war do not understand the psychology of Europeans. They are so steeped in the traditions of the past many of them are living more in the glories of centuries gone by than the realities of today. They will quarrel and come to blows disputing about the various deeds of some ancestor who lived three hundred years ago.

When we talk about making war again in Europe we are talking about sending American school boys into the range of machine guns which would mow them down like timothy drops in front of a mowing machine. We are talking about taking your boy and your neighbor's boy, putting him for a brief period in a training camp to learn a smattering of the science of mass killing. Sending him against bayonet dummies, telling him to curse and swear at the imaginary foe as he charges with all the hatred he can pollute his heart. Training him to fly a bombing plane in wild power dives to throw half-ton missiles which may send innocent women and children to hideous deaths.

For America to enter the war means sending to encampments two, three, five million young men. Training them to concentrate their minds to kill, kill, KILL—take the lives of other boys some mothers have raised. Not to defend America from invasion—not to save our own homes from despoilment, but to mix again in that age-old quarrel which has broken out between jealous European races time after time, decade after decade, century after century since before the armies of Hannibal swept down on Rome, the armies of Caesar pushed over northern Europe and into the British Isles, the armies of Alexander The Great conquered the known world.

Our entry into this European war would settle nothing, just as our last venture settled nothing.

This nation has embarked upon a vast program of defense. With madmen still at large in Europe it is sensible that we should arm for defense and be ready if any of the madmen should get ideas about attacking us. We should be ready to defend our land from invasion just as every red-blooded man would fight to defend his home from the intrusion of a despoiler. But the national leaders who are appropriating billions for arms should not make the mistake of thinking this money might be turned to the purpose of waging a new war of invasion. For the temper of American mothers and American fathers is determinedly set against any such venture—let the politicians take warning!

France may be beaten by Germany, though we pray not—Britain may be invaded by Hitler, God forbid—the British people may be forced to find haven in Canada. Still, Americans should not send an army across the Atlantic. With all our latent strength, with all our resources, with all our sympathy for the underdog and our willingness to right a wrong when we see it, we Americans have no power to iron out the racial quarrels of Europeans who have jumped at each other's throats for centuries. Hitler today is the hated figure of peace-loving people the world over and the Germans are the war mongers of this age. About a hundred years ago Napoleon was the empire builder and the French armies were conquering Europe as the Germans are today.

If we Americans try to right every wrong in the world by joining sides in all the wars of Europe we will soon fritter away our resources and dissipate the strength which has made us a great nation. We must stay out of war that humanity may advance. It is not our national mission to rush into every conflict which sets other nations to spilling their neighbors' blood. Let us build high our fences and defend our shores whenever they are threatened. But let no political party, let no misguided politician or army leader go against the current of the national opinion that we should steer clear of European wars.

MOVING WITH THE TIMES

Retail distributors, whether independent or chain, primarily exist to serve two groups—consumers and producers. The interest of the customer is to obtain articles whose quality he can trust, at the lowest possible price. The interest of the producer is to obtain the widest possible market for what he makes or raises, and to receive a return commensurate with the final selling price.

The overhead cost of distribution— which simply means the various in-between expenses involved in bringing goods from farm and factory to the ultimate consumer — has tended steadily downward in recent years. And the cause of that progress has been, to a very large extent, competition. Competition in manufacturing has been responsible for providing the public with a far [illegible] quality of products at a far lower [illegible] — refrigerators, automobiles, etc. By the [illegible]en, competition in distribution, with all [illegible] retailers thinking up ways and means to [illegible]blic better, has been responsible for [illegible] increased operating efficiency of [illegible]

The present open competitive system, in other words, has proven itself. It favors neither chains nor independents. The chain store which fails to move with the times will fail, exactly as will the independent store whose owner is wasteful, incompetent or lazy. The customer will go to the store which offers him most—in price, quality, special service, selection of goods, and so on. There is no regimentation of merchandising in this country, and that's one reason why our standard of living is the highest in the world.

HOCKING OUR LIBERTIES

Freedom of press is one of the most vital of all liberties. Any move to curb the press in this country by direct means is doomed to crushing defeat.

Less spectacular, but almost as vital to our liberties is private credit. Unless a man can secure credit in a competitive credit market to operate his business, he is no longer a free citizen. The local bank, for example, is far more than a safe depository. It is a private credit agency which is only too glad to loan money to worthy borrowers and otherwise serve the public—for the simple reason that it is a unit of a great competitive banking system.

A direct assault is being made upon private credit. Government lending agencies by the score are steadily distributing millions upon millions of dollars to farmers, home-builders, business, at terms no private citizen can compete with. Every million thus distributed is a nail in the coffin of private credit. And yet it takes no economist to follow absorption of private credit by government to its logical conclusion. Getting "in hock" to government will in the long run destroy our liberties just as effectively as giving a government censor the key to every newspaper office in the land.

One need hold no brief for banking to realize that the nation's banks are the very heart of the private credit system. And it takes no great imagination to foresee the inevitabilities of a government-dominated credit system. The private banker in his sphere of activity is as essential as freedom of the press in a democratic society.

EQUIPMENT OR MEN!

"Give us planes" was the general cry of those men fortunate enough to be evacuated from Flanders. After days and nights of constant struggle, with food scarce and ammunition about exhausted, these plucky soldiers were asking for more.

Which reminds us that it is time we did away with all this sham and hypocrisy and hurry all equipment possible to the Allied forces. It is much simpler to furnish the equipment than to wait and be obliged to furnish men. If Hitler, and his cohorts, are to be licked and licked thoroughly, then help to lick them in Europe.

HEY! KEEP YOUR MIND ON OUR BUSINESS

How, What and Why

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply of your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Will Grapefruit Grow?

[illegible] ago last fall I plant[illegible] seed from a Texas grape[illegible] From these I saved two trees [illegible] now about five feet high. [illegible] expect blossoms and fruit. [illegible] care is needed for them?"

Professor L. H. MacDaniels, pomology department replies: "[illegible] seedling grapefruit trees would undoubtedly bear good fruit eventually under favorable conditions. Ordinarily, such trees would not begin to bear until they were six or seven years old. Grafted trees usually bear somewhat younger.

"Unless you have a greenhouse or other place to [illegible] it is doubtful if you can bring the trees into bearing.

"Care would consist in supplying the trees with enough water and soil fertility. Moderate amounts of well rotted manure would do. The real difficulty would come in the winter when the tree would have to be brought indoors. Such trees rarely thrive in the house because of the lack of enough sunshine, excessively dry air, or minute amounts of gas which may escape from stoves.

To bring a tree into successful bearing, it would have to be put into a large tub, such as one-third of a barrel or similar container".

Bore Through Floor

Miss M. M. K., writes: "We have a home in the country, and in one of the rooms small black insects bore their way right through the floor. What are they, and how can we get rid of them?"

Professor R. W. Leiby of the entomology department answers: "The room is very likely infested with powder post beetles. We have sent you a leaflet that tells how to control them. If you think other insects are responsible, write us a more detailed account about them and send specimens."

Don't Cultivate Too Often
G. J. Raleigh

One of the problems which all vegetable growers have to face is that of weed control, and the necessary labor accounts for one of the large items in the cost of production. Cultivating the soil is one of the best ways to control weeds.

More than fifteen years of experimental work at the Long Island vegetable research farm and at Cornell indicate that it is not necessary to cultivate more than enough to control weeds. Added cultivation adds to the cost and may injure the roots of vegetable plants.

The time to destroy weeds is while they are small and before they injure the crop plants. The most effective cultivator for weed control is one that cuts off the weeds just below the surface of the soil. Such a cultivator does not destroy many roots.

In general, the amount of cultivation required depends on rainfall. More is needed during seasons with frequent rains, and less in dry seasons. Cultivating after the plants are about half grown is likely to do more harm than good.

Stirring the soil by cultivation soon after a light rain is likely to result in a loss of moisture. For this reason, it should be delayed until the moisture has a chance to become distributed in the soil below the depth cultivated. Deep cultivation is seldom justified.

With but one dissenting vote the Supreme Court recently upheld a requirement that public school children must salute the flag even against their religious principles. The Court maintained that State Legislatures have the right to insist on the salute to the flag as a symbol of national unity. "National Unity is the basis of national security", said Justice Frankfurter.

Destined to go overboard with the adjournment of Congress set by the President for June 22nd are several bills, some of major importance. Among them is the Walter-Logan measure to allow judicial review of administrative rules and regulations the anti-lynching bill passed by the House several months ago and the Smith amendments to the National Labor Relations Act which would abolish the present Labor Board and create a new one with an administrator to enforce violations of the Act. In all probability, the adjournment will take place in spite of the united opposition of the Republican members who feel that they should remain in session as long as the unsettled world conditions require. Among the bills scheduled for passage are the following: a measure strengthening the national defense, legislation for finger-printing and registration of aliens, the billion dollar relief bill and the billion dollar defense tax bill.

The tax sub-committee of the House has just recommended a program of increased taxes which would raise the corporate income tax rates by 1%, lower the exemptions on personal income taxes from $2500 to $2000 for married persons and from $1000 to $800 for individuals, as well as lifting surtax rates in the brackets from $6000 to $100,000. These increases are in addition to the increased excise tax on a long list of commodities and a 10% super tax on all income levies. The reduction in exemption of personal income tax would raise the number of returns from the present number of seven million five hundred thousand, of whom approximately one-half pay tax, to some sixteen million individuals, of whom approximately six million will pay taxes. This will make about two million new taxpayers.

An official appeal has been directed to the United States to accept Belgian and Holland refugees who are now crowding Great Britain and France beyond capacity. Around five million old men, women and children have been driven from their homes and must be taken care of in some way. The American Red Cross is endeavoring to raise twenty million dollars for war relief, other agencies have been formed for Finnish Relief, Belgian relief and relief for the Netherlands. Whether our people will be willing to further increase our relief loan, in view of our own domestic situation, remains to be seen.

Overheard in the cloak room of the House of Representatives was an argument as to whether the turkey would not be a more appropriate and symbolic emblem of America than the eagle. Many of our people have never seen a live eagle while most everyone is quite familiar with the peace loving turkey. Friends of the turkey claim that the kingbird, which is about the size of a sparrow will attack an eagle and drive it away. The other side claims that the strength of the eagle, its noble bearing, and the fact that it is firmly established on coins, official seal, currency and cornices of public buildings, and in the public mind as the national emblem, warrants its continued use. At any rate, it is refreshing to find a topic now and then of a lighter vein and not connected with war.

If any of you Addisonites run into Ed Wade of Painted Post and he greets you with a "How" and starts into an Indian war dance be not alarmed. Ed was made an honorary Chief in the Cayuga Indian tribe at the Boy Scout camporee in Bath last Saturday night. And by the way, Ed is some Indian dancer. So be prepared for dances, whoops or even a scalping for Chief Strong Fox gave Commissioner Wade his tomahawk. You can now address Ed as Chief Standing Wolf.

Flag Day Friday is an occasion when all Americans should proudly display the American Flag, say over to themselves the "Pledge of Allegiance" and re-read the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence. It will well repay the effort made and give you renewed courage and faith in the fundamentals of the United States government, the world's greatest democracy.

Sunday will be just another Sunday to many, but to some it will be an occasion of rejoicing or of unforgettable reminiscence. Sunday is Father's Day, created for commercial reasons, but a day not-to-be-forgotten anyway. To those who have their Fathers with them I say, plan to spend the day with him. I wonder how many really know their Dads, his thoughts, his feelings, and the man inside. To those, like myself, whose Dads have gone to the Land that knows no pain, the best we can do is to pray for them and to remind ourselves of things we neglected to do for our Dads when we had them, little things we might have made their lives much happier, and to try to make up to our sons for that neglect.

[illegible] uniform, yet but peace time uniforms, not military uniforms. Planes droned overhead through the day and night, not dropping bombs but on peace time errands. The boys marched, but not to kill or be killed, but to show their joy in living. Instead of grim faces of wonder and fear on youthful faces, there was joy and laughter. Instead of learning war tactics they learned sportsmanship. Boys whose forefathers came from many warring countries, gathered and forgot race and creed in the joy of "Scouting the American Way."

From the "Take It Or Leave It" column of the Potter County Enterprise of last week I take this quotation: "Can't help feeling sorry for a bald man. Pride tells him to keep his hat on in the presence of ladies while good manners tell him to take it off. And there you are!" Now, as one of the BHM (bald headed men), I resent that reflection on our chivalry. My hat always comes off to the ladies. God bless them. For what is a shining dome compared to beautiful ladies. Why should my head remain covered any more than my hands?

"[illegible]ere is no one quite like a boy's Dad. None so king, so generous, so endowed with manly virtues. To shatter his boyish illusion by unwise and intemperate use of liquor is a cruel blow no thoughtful father would ever inflict on his son. Repeated often it can change the course of a boy's whole life. For youthful ideals are fragile—easily twisted and destroyed. Any man—especially any Dad- who cannot drink wisely and moderately owes it to his family, his son, not drink at all. Fine whiskey is a luxury, one of the pleasures of life to be enjoyed only in moderation—never at the sacrifice of life's necessities—nor at the expense of another person's happiness". The matter in quotations is not an anti-saloon league or dry lecture, but words taken from an advertisement of a well known liquor manufacturer.

Cole Believes Congress Should Not Adjourn

Washington, June 13—(Special to the Advertiser)—W. Sterling Cole, representative in Congress from the 57th District, today expressed the opinion that Congress should remain in session throughout the summer and until the national emergency, due to the European conflict, had been fully met. He said that the Administration's anxiety to have the Congressional session concluded savored strongly of a desire to mix politics with rearmament.

Mr. Cole declared that every member of the Senate and House is receiving hundreds of letters from their constituents in reference to the attitude of the United States and that the great majority of writers favor full rearmament and a maximum amount of aid to the Allies but oppose sending American troops abroad under any circumstance. There are a few, however, who wish to see the United States enter the Europan War as it did the first World War, Mr. Cole said.

Due to his membership on the House Naval Affairs Committee, and his important assignment to a small sub-committee on naval affairs, Mr. Cole has been in his office from early morning until late at night, seven days a week, for several months. Despite his weariness and adverse summer temperatures in Washington, Mr. Cole believes that the representatives of the people should remain on duty here until the rearmament and other pressing defense programs are completed.

Increase in Auto Accidents Noted

Albany—For the fourth consecutive month, traffic fatalities in New York State have increased over the corresponding month of last year, Motor Vehicle Commissioner Carroll E. Mealey said today.

April statistics revealed a total of 182 deaths compared to 172 recorded in April, 1939. The fatality increase was 5.8 per cent, the Commissioner reported. Accidents totaling 5,420, and injuries numbering 6,905, showed a decrease of 282 accidents and 357 injuries when compared with April, 1939, totals.

Petestrian deaths, representing approximately 65 per cent of the total auto deaths during April, increased from 89 in April, 1939 to 118 —a gain of more than 32 per cent.

An analysis of pedestrian accidents listed "crossing intersections against signals" and "crossing between intersection" as the principal causes of the fatality increase.

The statistical summary for April compared with that of April, 1939, revealed the following:

1. Fatal night accidents rose from 67 to 110—an increase of more than 26 per cent.

2. 29 fatal accidents took place in business and tenement sections 37 per cent more than occurred in these localities last April.

3. Fatal accidents occurring where police officers or signal lights controlled traffic increased 148 per cent.

4. Fatal accidents involving drivers between the ages of 30 and 39 years increased 25 per cent.

5. The number of intoxicated operators involved in fatal accidents declined from 7 to 1.

6. Fatal accidents occurring in the open country areas decreased 84 per cent.

Fatalities in Rural New York decreased from 81 to 54. In Urban New York deaths increased from 20 to 35 and in Greater New York from 71 to 93.

Motor vehicle fatalities for the first four months of 1940 totalled 638 ecmpared to 585 for the corresponding period of last year—an increase of approximately 9 per cent.

Addison Pays Tribute to Soldier Dead

(Deferred from last week)

"It is time American cleaned her own door-yard if we desire to best honor those who have withstood tests of other days in American History", the Rev. John V. Axtell, told the people of this community in the Memorial Day exercises in Addison Cemetery Thursday. He spoke of the tests America has undergone in the past and compared the birth of America to the birth of a child. The speech followed a parade thru the streets. The American Legion was in charge of the affair.

William Lewis was Grand Marshal and Post Commander John W. Russ was officer of the day. The parade formation consisted of the Colors and color bearers, firing squad, high school band, Spanish War Veterans, American Legion, Gold Star mother, Civil War widows, American Legion Auxiliary, Boy and Girl Scouts, school children and firemen.

Commander Russ

At the cemetery the band played for the singing of "America". Commander Russ opened the program by saying, "One short year ago today we gathered in this same place to do honor to our comrades who have passed on. At that time we were honored with the last survivor of the Civil War in this community, Comrade Eugene Albee who has passed on to his reward. Today we are honored with the presence of these Comrades of the Spanish-American War. In a few years many of you here today will witness the passing of the last survivor of this group of brave men who heeded their country's call in time of emergency. And it is not unreasonable to say that many here also will witness the passing of the last survivor of the World War in our community, but before that time a new group of veterans may come into being to carry on as the veterans of all wars have done since the founding of our country."

The opening prayer for peace was given by the Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon of the Methodist Church. The Rev. Axtell was then presented and said in part:

"Existence in this world so far as humans are concerned is carried on by labor and struggle. This is true of individuals and also true of nations. This is a solemn occasion and a time when we are anxious for our safety. The casualty lists of war make us solemn.

"Let us confine ourselves in the ideal of Democracy for that is the ideal for which we live, and for which many have sacrificed life. The stages of our national life are based on tests. The first is the stage of pregnancy. The religious test was based on the separation of church and state with the privilege of worshiping God as one pleased. England was intolerant and insistent on the church being answerable to the state and the state supporting the church. Religious freedom was more valuable than life to the Pilgrim fathers.

"The second test was governmental. The Pilgrims had taste of monarchy in England and republic in Holland, neither of which were welcomed by the Pilgrims. The problem became one of 'taxation without representation'. And the test was whether a nation so conceived has a right to be born.

"A third test was social, the creating of a common denominator of middle class Puritans and Cavaliers of Virginia. Labor was given a dignity it had never known and those who did not work did not eat. The desire for self-government was stronger than race.

"A test came in 1860 in the form of a self-inflicted wound. The test was whether the democracy had the vitality to heal itself. It proved it before the world. The Spanish-American war was the most altruistic war ever fought. We were the Good Samaritan. The test was whether a democracy could match old established countries where authority centralized. Still another test came in 1918 when we tested whether a democracy could match a kingdom, raise an army, equip it and supply it. Again the test favored the democracy.

"Now Democracy is undergoing one of the stiffest tests it has ever endured. What are the days of its years? Shall we or shall we not thank God the test is being made elsewhere? We must weed out the 'Fifth Column' in America. We know best who are part of the best land and government that God ever established."

The "Star Spangled Banner" closed the music program. The closing prayer was by the Rev. Patrick Kelly. Flowers were laid on the graves of soldiers and "Taps" was sounded.

Attica—Andrew Krauss, 62 years a fireman, was honored by 200 volunteers at a Wyoming County Volunteer banquet.

Mrs. Wheeler Died Friday In Woodhull

The death of Mrs. Mary Wheeler occurred Friday morning after an illness of three weeks, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Earle H. Brown. Mrs. Wheeler was born May 2, 1855, in East Troupsburg to James U. and Angeline Symonds Miller. She came to this town when a small child and has resided here continuously since. She was the widow of Augustus Wheeler. Mrs. Wheeler was one of Woodhull's most highly respected and best loved women. She did practical nursing and to every home and heart, with which she came in contact, she brought sunshine and cheer, which helped to cure the ills of those she nursed. Her family was her first interest, but she was too generous and kind to limit her strength and love within this circle. She gave freely of both to those who needed her. During her illness she has been tenderly cared fir by her family.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Woodhull and attended the services on Mother's Day of this year.

She is survived by three daughters: Mrs. Jabe Johnson of Woodhull; Mrs. Thomas Packard of Gorham; Mrs. Earle H. Brown of Woodhull; two sons, Howard Wheeler of Corning and Lynn Wheeler of Woodhull.

Funeral services were held from the E. H. Brown home on Tuesday afternoon, June 11, 1940, with the Rev. David H. Davis, pastor of the Woodhull Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was made in the Woodhull Cemetery.

Here's Tricky New Garnish For Meat

Here is a trick new fruit garnish that will put over hot or cold roasts, chops or broiled chickens: Cut unpeeled oranges ⅛ inch, crosswise slices. Marinate them an hour or longer in French dressing to cover. Drain, sprinkle with a little lemon juice and brown sugar and broil on both sides until brown—this will take about 8 minutes. Baste twice with the drained off French dressing. Sprinkle lightly with finely chopped fresh mint leaves.

If you have a favorite recipe — please send it along. Contributions to this department will be welcomed.

"Torrid Zone" at Fox Theatre Saturday

Ann Sheridan, the movie "oomph girl", would rather be spanked by James Cagney than kissed by a Harvard man.

The preference, Miss Sheridan admits, is purely theoretical. She has only come close to being spanked by Cagney, and she has not come within dodging distance of a Harvard osculation.

The near spanking incident which prompted Miss Sheridan's observation occurred on a sound stage at Warner Bros. studio where the "oomph girl" was working with Cagney and Pat O'Brien in the picture "Torrid Zone", which opens Saturday at the Fox. It was of course, for the picture.

PAT O'BRIEN

Miss Sheridan was supposed to have won a considerable sum of money from Cagney at cards. Having discovered reason to suspect her dealing was not on the up and up, Cagney, by gentle means or rough, was going to get back his money.

While the cameras and microphone recorded it all, he tried verbal persuasion. When that failed, he suddenly grabbed Miss Sheridan and hoisted her into the position doctor's favor when they're dealing with a baby who has swallowed a nickel. Miss Sheridan promptly cried quits and when she was red head up again, turned over the money.

"He certainly sweeps a girl off her feet," she remarked.

Classify Cows For Production

A new phase of the dairy program of the Steuben County Farm Bureau will be introduced in meetings to be held at the A. H. Lyke farm at Howard, E. C. Smith, Addison and Floyd Loper, Hornell, next Thursday and Friday (June 20, 21) in which herds will be classified as to type.

A committee of local breeders appointed by the Holstein and Ayrshire Clubs will assist Professor J. D. Burke, Cornell livestock man, in making the placements. The herds to be classified have long been members of dairy herd improvement associations, and all cows have production records.

The purpose of herd classification is to correlate type and production, in order that dairymen can breed cows that combine these two essentials. Still another advantage to this procedure is to locate cow families with a consistent record of transmitting the desired type to their offspring, as well as to locate herd sires that breed the desired type into their daughters.

The first meeting of the series will be held with A. H. Lyke of Howard on Thursday afternoon, June 20; another meeting will be held at the E. C. Smith farm at Addison Friday forenoon, June 21; and the last meeting of the series will be with Floyd Loper of Hornell Friday afternoon.

All interested dairymen are invited to attend.

Douglas Aldrich arrived Wednesday from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, to spend the summer at his home on Steuben street.

CLOUDBURST DELUGES CANISTEO VALLEY

Creek overflow.

Attempts at recovery from Tuesday night's storm were given a setback Wednesday night by heavy rains which swept over the district, doing a great deal of damage in the Curtis Hollow section. Bridges were washed out, fields covered with stones and gullies put in fields where creeks left their stream beds. Orman Whitmore reported he had gullies four feet deep in his fields and lost about half an acre of corn and potatoes as a result of Tuesday's storm. Little Niagara, east of Addison, overflowed its banks again Wednesday and covered Route 17. Traffic was slowed but not halted according to state police.

Big Show Heads Toward Us With New Spectacles

The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, with the world's largest big top in solid blue, improved air conditioning, a new opening spectacle, "The Return of Marco Polo", created and costumed in France by Max Weldy, and an all- new performance, star-studded by a tremendous array of new European features, will exhibit in Elmira, Friday, June 14.

Foremost among the impressive importations is the great Alfred Court, Europe's most famous trainer, with his three famed mixed groups of performing wild animals —Polar bears, Himalayan bears, Bengal tigers, lions, black and spotted leopards, Siberian snow leopards, black and spotted panthers, Cougars, pumas, jaguars, and Great Dane dogs, all working together in breath-taking violation of jungle law. Never before has a trainer accomplished this startling mixing of so many species of natural enemies. This is Court's first American appearance.

The leading horseman of Europe —Hans Strassburger, Vas Concelos and Los Aserveras—with their renowned troupes of dressage and liberty steeds bring the Big Show's horse displays to a new high. The war and big money made their importation possible, as it did scores of other troupes and stars who hitherto would not budge off the Continent.

The Greatest Show on Earth, steaming toward this territory on four long trains, with 1,600 people, 50 elephants, 1,009 menagerie animals and hundreds of horses, will open its performances at 2:15 and 8:15 daily, with doors open at 1 and 7 p. m., for public inspection of the huge menagerie, including Gargantua the Great, and the long lines of performing steeds in the new horse fair tent adjoining it.

Merchants Shellac Cubs 22 to 3 Here Sunday

The Addison Merchants took a one-sided game from the Corning Cubs here Sunday to the score of 22 to 3. The visitors used two pitchers in an attempt to stem the storm of 21 hits recorded by the winners. Dominick pitched the Merchants to victory by holding the losers to three scattered hits for the three runs scored. Willis at second had an off day for the winners with three errors being recorded against him. E. Cook scored two hits in four times at bat to be top hitter for the Cubs while hitting honors for Addison went to Russ Wade with four hits in four trips to the plate and Louie Dominick scored four in five trips to bat.

The locals play at Corning Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Smith and daughter Muriel, Steuben street, were in Goshen visiting relatives and friends last week. Mr. Smith's sister, Mrs. Emmet Harding of Chicago, returned home with them. Mr. Harding is expected to join her this week and they expect to go to New York for a visit.
